From the President

The 215th General Assembly meeting in Denver went well for NAPS. The number of attendees in the exhibit area was not as large as last year, attributed to the smaller number of Presbyterians in the Denver area and school still in session. We still gave out most of the literature we had, so the people were interested in Scouting and our program. We were kept busy at the booth talking about our mission. We had given out all two hundred ball point pens by Wednesday evening. Of the 200 NAPS applications, just a few were left at the close of the General Assembly. The commissioners and alternatives each received three pieces of Scouting literature in their mailboxes that totaled 2700 pieces of literature distributed.

The luncheon, "Scouting in the Church Ministry" went very well, and we received many good compliments. The thirty-two attendees included the Denver District Executive and District Chairman and Scouters who plan to join NAPS. The speech by Don Campbell, Director of Congregational Ministries Division was very timely and appreciated. A summary of the speech is on page 3.

Some NAPS members were very busy helping NAPS/BSA grow in numbers and services. A summary of the year's activities and future plans presented at the Denver business meeting is included in a table on page 5 entitled Report to the Membership. I appreciate all the time and effort that they have spent on NAPS' behalf.

One of my joys was being able to find four active Scouters who were very deserving of the God and Service Award and completing the award. I hope all of you can do the same.

The Bylaws were approved by the few members that voted on them. For anyone who would like a clean copy of the Bylaws please request them from the Secretary. There were a few typos in the PCUSA designation and one part of the name of the current BSA Religious Relations Group's was different from those approved by the Directors and have been corrected.

Don Campbell receives God and Service Award

NAPS presented the coveted God and Service Award to the Rev. Don Campbell, director of the Congregational Ministries Division of the General Assembly Council during the organization's general Assembly dinner May 24th.

Campbell, an Eagle Scout and longtime Scout leader, was the featured speaker for the event, which he characterized as "something of a family reunion," but was surprised and gratified to learn that he was being honored for dual service to the Boy Scouts of America and the Presbyterian Church (USA).

In his remarks, Campbell said that things he learned in his youth as a Scout, especially "respect for all of God's creation," are "fundamental to what I am today." He said the relationship between PC(USA) and the Scouts is "a covenant relationship" in which we "seek to instill the concept of duty to God."

"We are a ministry together," he said.

¹ Work and Learn Award is available only to residents

Campbell noted that a controversy several years ago over “the sexual lifestyles of leaders in the church and the Boy Scouts of America ... came very close to destroying or seriously damaging our relationship.” He noted that situation – in which some said the Boy Scout’s exclusion of gay leaders was not consistent with the PC(USA)’s commitment to inclusiveness – showed “what can happen when a particular point of view becomes dominant,” when people feel strongly about issues “and the facts don’t seem to matter.”

Almost 200,000 men and boys are active in nearly 4,000 Boy Scout charters held by Presbyterian churches in the United States.

Campbell told his listeners proudly about the first and only Boy Scout troop whose charter is held by a PC(USA) middle governing body – a new troop “down along the border” in New Mexico, led by Sierra Blanca Presbytery Executive Shannon Webster.

Philmont Request for Assistance

Please contact any retired ministers that you know that might be interested in a month in the mountains to go to Philmont.

Philmont is current one protestant chaplain short, will be 2 short after July 6 and 3 short after July 15. They usually have 3 on staff to make a complete compliment with 4 Catholic, 1 Jewish, and 1 LDS. There have been several unusual circumstances that have presented this problem.

Eliot spoke with Mark Anderson, Director of Program Development at Philmont, and they will pay $1200 per month, room and board, and a travel allotment. They would like for a person to stay a minimum of one month, but may be flexible on this at this time. You may bring your wife and the living quarters are brick duplex houses. There is a new dining facility where you get your meals, and the houses have a refrigerator and microwave.

Contact Mark Anderson for more details at Philmont main Switchboard 505-376-2281 ask for Mark, or on his cell phone 505-447-2372 and he is very good about calling back if you have to leave a message.

Gone Home

For more than 60 years, Eugene Kempf taught boys to build campfires, tie knots and do good deeds. Mr. Kempf helped in the organization of NAPS and was a Regional Director of Covenant Region for many years.

Mr. Kempf began his long affiliation with the Boy Scouts of America in 1938 when he was 12, and served the organization as a scout, scoutmaster, commissioner, camping chairman, training director, and as a member of the Detroit Area Council's Executive Board.

"He loved the Boy Scouts," said his wife, Wilma Kempf. "He really enjoyed helping boys become better people."

Mr. Kempf earned several awards for his work with the Boy Scouts, including the organization's highest honor for adult volunteers, the Silver Beaver Award.

He also received both the God and Service Award and the National Jewish Committee on Scouting's Shofar Award, which recognizes outstanding service by adults in the promotion of Scouting among Jewish youth.

NAPS Represented at National BSA Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Boy Scouts of America was held from May 28 through May 30 in Philadelphia. Northeast Region Director Eugene Foley represented NAPS at the Relationships Division Exhibit and the Religious Relationships Committee Meeting.

According to Foley, "The most notable concern now is the provision of chaplains at Philmont late in the summer. Clergy have a difficult time committing to the entire summer and student chaplains are often forced to return to their seminaries before the summer season is over."

NAPS is working to raise money to support a Presbyterian chaplain at the National High Adventure facilities and has as one of its objectives, the support of Scouting chaplaincies. According to David Richardson, a professional member of the BSA Relationships staff, "NAPS will support about 20% of the total cost for a single chaplain at Philmont." – being their travel and a stipend. Philmont traditionally requires three Protestant Chaplains on a full-time basis for the summer. One of these chaplains is generally supported by the United Methodist Church. The cost of the other two is shared by many denominations and from other contributions and endowed earnings. A significant cost of these chaplaincies is the vehicles used to reach the backcountry where chaplains perform their duties.

The Religious Relationships Committee is also planning for the 2005 National Jamboree, which will include a staff of between eighty and one hundred chaplains. In addition to helping recruit chaplains, NAPS will again staff an exhibit promoting the continued relationship between the BSA and Presbyterian churches. NAPS has been well represented at National Jamborees for many years and maintains a high profile to youth and adult members alike.

NAPS has established a separate fund to support a Chaplain at High Adventure bases. We hope to raise enough money to be able to support a Presbyterian Chaplain or secondary year seminary student next year for the full 3 months. We are also looking for a retired Minister who would be able to stay at Philmont for one month or longer is possible. Contributions can be sent to NAPS Treasurer Rush Hart, 2416 Ryan Place Drive, Ft. Worth Texas, 76110-5250.

Regional News

Rocky Mountain Region

Bob Matchett, Director (match@4edisp.net)

The Rocky Mountain Region of NAPS was privileged to host the 215th General Assembly of PCUSA during the last week of May. Manning the NAPS booth was a great opportunity to make quality contacts with many Presbyterian Scouters and Presbyterian Church leaders from throughout the country.

Of particular note, Kathi Walters has agreed to serve as Rocky Mountain Region Secretary. Kathi is the Roundtable Commissioner for Centennial District in the Denver Area Council. Kathi helped man the NAPS booth during the General Assembly. I am looking forward to her continuing association with NAPS and to her help in developing the Rocky Mountain Region NAPS. At the present time we have about 300,000 square miles and about twenty NAPS members, spread from Utah and Colorado north to the Canadian border.

Additionally, I want to thank Boy Scout Troop 667, sponsored by Trinity Presbyterian Church in Arvada, Colorado for their strong support during the General Assembly. Troop 667 provided their troop flag, their US flag and their knot board which were used throughout the week of the General Assembly at the NAPS booth. Additionally, Bob Shaw, Organizational Representative from Trinity Presbyterian Church, and a NAPS member, put in many hours of volunteer time helping man the NAPS booth during the GA.
